Knapp addresses SAF on demand for wood

Karen Knapp of Appomattox was a featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Appalachian Section of the Society of American Foresters on Friday, Jan. 30.

Professional foresters from North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia gathered in Roanoke, Virginia to discuss "Forest Productivity: The Problem and Possible Responses". Our nation's demand for wood products, paper and fuelwood is expected to double by the year 2030. To meet these needs, more wood will have to be grown on a shrinking forest base. Ms. Knapp addressed the subject of landowner assistance programs as a possible solution to the forest productivity problem.

Ms. Knapp is a forester for Westvaco Corporation's Cooperative Forest Management (CFM) Program in Lynchburg, Virginia. Westvaco's CFM program offers forest management assistance to private non-industrial woodland owners.

The Society of American Foresters is the national segments of the forestry profession in the United States. The objectives of the SAF are to advance the science, technology, teaching and practice of professional forestry in America, and to use the knowledge and skills of the profession to benefit society.
